

POEM

One Hundred Years of Literary Indulgence (For Gabriel García Márquez)

PAULETTE A. RAMSAY

another hundred years, we who come after those who came before and those who follow the ones after us
and those after them will read your stories search the pages
criss-cross of endless words and short sentences labyrinth of complex images painted with your multi-coloured words for a hundred years and more . . .

First published in Star Apple Blue and Avocado Green (2016)