

Reviewers for This Issue

ERICK MENDOZA BARROSO (PhD) is a full Professor in Education and Hispanic Literature at the University of Guantanamo, Cuba. He has published widely in the areas of Pedagogy and Linguistics in several high-level journals. He is often called on to serve as research expert and specialist on Higher Education matters.

ELDON V. BIRTHWRIGHT teaches African American Studies and English at Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, Louisiana. A graduate of the UWI, Mona, he holds graduate degrees from the University of Chicago, Emory University, and Harvard University. His current research focuses on Afro-Caribbean literature and aesthetics, African American and African Diaspora literature, and Higher Education Policy.

LISA R. BROWN, B.A. (Hons) UWI, MA, British Columbia is a trained teacher of English with 30 years teaching experience at the secondary and tertiary level. She currently lectures Shakespeare, Modern Drama and West Indian Autobiography in the Department of Literatures in English UWI, Mona.

MERVIN E. CHISHOLM (PhD) is the Manager/Coordinator of the Centre for Excellence in Teaching and Learning, The University of the West Indies, Mona Campus. He also teaches adult and higher education in the School of Education, The UWI, Mona Campus. His research interests include curriculum studies, teaching and learning in adult and higher education, postmodern, transformative and critical approaches to education.

NORVAL EDWARDS, B.A. (UWI); M.A., PhD (York University) is a Senior Lecturer in the Department of Literatures in English at The UWI, Mona Campus. His research interests and publication are in the areas of postcolonial Caribbean literary and cultural studies and Africana studies.

CAROLINE DYCHE is a Lecturer in the English Language Section of the Department of Language, Linguistic and Linguistics. She has co-ordinated the teaching of courses in this section for many years and has contributed to the expansion of research in the broad areas of language pedagogy and writing theories.

CAROL HORDATT GENTLES is a Senior Lecturer in the School of Education at the University of the West Indies, Mona. She holds the PhD in Curriculum, Teaching and Learning from the University of Toronto. Her areas of expertise are Teacher Education, Teacher Development and Qualitative Research.

SUZETTE A. HAUGHTON is a Senior Lecturer and Head of the Department of Government at the Mona Campus of the University of the West Indies. She is a trained teacher and has a PhD from King's College, University of London. Dr. Haughton's research interests include International Relations, Security Studies and Education.

ZELLYNNE JENNINGS, Professor Emerita, is a former Director of the School of Education at The University of the West Indies, Mona. She has published widely on curriculum innovation and change in the Caribbean, and curriculum evaluation. In 2017 she co-authored the book Re imagining Education in the Commonwealth Caribbean and was also awarded the Prime Minister's Medal of Appreciation for Service to Education in Jamaica.

MICHÈLE KENNEDY is a former Senior Lecturer in Syntax and Language Acquisition at the University of the West Indies, Mona, former Faculty Associate of the Centre for Excellence in Teaching and Learning, and co-ordinator of the Jamaican Language Unit. Her research interests include the First Language Acquisition of Creole Lexical Items and Morphosyntax, and how this might inform the Language Arts classroom and Language Policy.

PAULETTE KERR is currently Campus Librarian at the University of the West Indies, Mona. She holds the PhD in Library and Information Science from Rutgers University, and the MA in History from The UWI. Her research interests include media and information literacy, and Jamaican social history. Her publications include two edited works, book chapters, articles in peer reviewed journals, refereed conference proceedings, and scholarly reports.

ROSLIN KHAN is Deputy Dean and Senior Lecturer at the Faculty of Education and Humanities, University of Guyana where she earned her BA and Post-Graduate Diploma in Education. Dr. Khan earned a Master's degree in Translation from the University of Essex, and her PhD in Comparative Caribbean Drama (English and Spanish) at the University of the West Indies, Mona.

FENG LEI is an Associate Professor at Taiyuan University of Technology (People's Republic of China). Dr. Feng holds the PhD in Translation Studies from Stellenbosch University, South Africa. He has published four books and several papers in both Chinese and English in the fields of Foreign Language Learning & Teaching, and Translation Studies. He currently serves as the Chinese Director of the Confucius Institute at the University of the West Indies, Mona.

KERWIN ANTHONY LIVINGSTONE is a specialist in Languages, Linguistics and Education. He is an Independent Researcher and a published writer/author. Dr. Livingstone has degrees in Modern Languages (B.A.), Applied Linguistics (M.A.), Education Technology (M.Ed.), and Language Sciences/Language Didactics (PhD). He is a trained tertiary teacher (P.G.C.T.T. and P.G.D.E.T.T.).

LUZ LONGSWORTH is the Pro Vice Chancellor and Principal of The University of the West Indies, Open Campus. Dr Longsworth is a graduate of The UWI where she earned her B.A. in Spanish and French (First Class Honours). She holds the M.A. degree in Hispanic Studies from Queen's University, Canada, an MBA from The UWI and a Doctorate in Business Administration in Higher Education Management from the University of Bath.

ANNE-MARIE POUCHET teaches undergraduate and postgraduate Spanish language and Hispanic Literature at the UWI, St. Augustine. She holds the PhD in Hispanic Literatures and Cultures from The Ohio State University and has been involved in regional and international foreign language teaching and evaluation for some twenty years. She has published on history and memory, dictatorship and religion in Hispanic literature.

NICOLE ROBERTS is a Senior Lecturer in the Department of Modern Languages and Linguistics at the University of the West Indies, St. Augustine. She holds the MA in Spanish and French from Florida State University and a PhD in Hispanic Studies from the University of Birmingham. Her research interests include Afro-Hispanic Literature, Women Studies as well as Life writing, race and ethnicity.

NORDIA D. M. THOMAS (PhD), (CAIA) is a Lecturer of Mathematics at The University of the West Indies, Mona Campus. Her research interests include market microstructure, alternative investments, fintech, and financial regulation and taxation. She teaches undergraduate courses in financial mathematics, financial economics, and operations research; as well as undergraduate and graduate courses in statistics.